One in two people with diabetes are unaware they have the disease

We can see the smallest change . . . and that changes everything